New York Cloak importers frightened by the duliness prevailing there, offered their goods at panic prices. Our resident buyers, always on hand at the right time, bought $30,000 worth, for cash. We propose to sell these rapidly, and to make success doubly sure, we offer the entire lot at a very slight advance on cost. Those coming first, of course, will have best selection, as some choice styles are in limited quantities.

The term of Capt. R. J. Black, clerk and master of the Chancery Court, expires tonight, and his successor has been appointed. He entered the office as a deputy nineteen years age to-day, and by steady application to business, mastered its details and gained the confidence of the entire bar. When a vacancy occurred, six years ago, the lawyers united in their desire that be should be promoted to the position of clerk and master, and he was appointed by Judge McDowell in accordance with their wishes, seconded by his own knowledge of Capt. Black's fitness for the position. His reports have been regularly made at the periods required by law, and the various committees appointed from time to time to examine into his them, and the result is that Capt. Black will leave the books and papers of the office in the best possible condition. His close attention to business during this which he has good reason to congratulate himself. He has worked early and late, lunching upon his desk and at all times ready to leave the ever present slice of pie only half devoured to wait upon a visitor. While this steady attention to his work has been to his advantage, it has also been of great service to the members of the bar and to litigants who were sure of finding him always at his post willing and — The police are anxious to find a man who wears a pepper-and-salt suit that does not belong to him. Last Friday night a new to he had in his possession a suit of clothes which were marked with his name and put in the locker by the station keeper. A little later a white man of the same name was arrested on a similar charge, and he happened to be released before the darky, whose suit of clothes was riven him, under the supposition that they had been taken from him. He did not demur, and the mistake was not discovered until the darky was released and called for his clothes. Yesterday the police found one of the white man's chums wearing the vest. Thompson, white, was arrested, but denied all knowledge of the clothes. His denial was not of any use to him, however, as two or three persons saw them delivered to him.

—An interesting meeting of the Memaphis Bicycle Club was held last night, when the matter of a race meeting in the spring was discussed. The term of R. J. Black, as clerk and master, expires to-morrow, November 25, a. 1884, and it becomes my duty to fill the vacancy. In the appointment of Mr. Black, six years ago, I gave great weight to the expressed wishes of a majority of the Memphis bar, while I did not consider their recommendation conclusive. Yet I felt that I ought to act in accordance with it in making the appointment, under the more many as 100 will attend, the club will be assent to enter the lists. If it is shown it is making in qualification and fitness for the position. There are now two applicants for the office, E. B. McHenry and S. I. McDowell. The latter has the recommendation of more than two-thirds of the members of the bar, I appoints of the members of the bar, I appoint more account to the public and credit to himself.
